FOR SALE.

That very Valuable Real Estate called

HAMILTON HALL.

THE subscriber, wishing to remove from the country to a town, offers for sale, his beautiful FARM, on which he now resides, ten miles from the city of Pittsburgh, on the southwest bank of the Monongahela river, and two miles from M'Keesport on the confluence of the Youghioghany and Monongahela rivers, and nearly opposite the mouth of Turtle creek.

This tract consists of about 275 acres of choice land, of which there is nearly 140 acres of first rate river and run bottom—the remainder is excellent tillable upland—there is about 90 acres of river bottom land cleared, which will produce as good corn and grass crops as any in the western country. In point of beauty, as well as excellent quality, this farm is excelled by none. The dwelling house is spacious, 72 feet in length, and one and a half story high, very neat and handsomely finished; a large barn with stables underneath, besides a horse stable, and other out houses, two tenant houses, and an excellent new Saw-mill, with a fall of 22 feet, and a stream of water sufficient for the purpose, for nearly nine months in the year. The same seat will admit of a grist or other mills also. There are several excellent springs for distilling, a handsome garden, stocked with all kinds of shrubbery; a young thriving Orchard, of the best fruit, and more than 3000 sugar trees on said farm.

If desired, there will be sold with the estate 100 full blooded, three fourths, and half blooded MERINO SHEEP, of superior quality and beauty, besides horses, cows, &c and all kinds of farming utensils. The proximity to Pittsburgh and its excellent market, which unquestionably is the best in the Union, and the convenience as well by land as by water, makes it one of the most desirable and valuable estates in the western country; not only the bottoms but a considerable part of the upland, is excellently calculated for meadow. A full description is deemed unnecessary, as it is presumed the property will not be purchased without viewing it; however, it is calculated the estate will clear from 2500 to $3000 per annum, if well attended to. It is clear of all incumbrance, and an undisputable title will be given.

Besides the above, the subscriber will sell three excellent tracts of BOTTOM LAND, situate about five miles from Harmony, and nine miles from Beaver, 25 miles from Pittsburgh, on the Conequenessing. This land is of the very best quality for meadow or corn; each tract has an improvement upon it: one a saw mill; and another, a good dwelling house, barn, &c.

FROM THE LIVERPOOL COURIER.

Characteristic sketches of the Moors.

The Moors so called by the Europeans, are a mixture of all nations who have at any time settled in North Africa, but the predominant character, physical and moral is that of the Arab of Saracen. The name is unknown to themselves, and if, as it would seem, it is a corruption from that of Mauri, by which the Romans designated the people of a particular province, it has long ceased to be applicable to the present inhabitants. "If you ask a Moor," says Mr. Dupuis, "what he calls himself, he will answer he is a Moolism or believer. His country? Bled Moolismin, the land of believers." The Arabs distinguish them by the name of Medaimen, or towns-people. Europeans however, are in the habit of applying indiscriminately the term Moor, not only to the mass of population in Northern Africa, but throughout all Asia to the confines of China; it is in fact almost synonimous with Musselmen. The Moors of Africa are rigid disciples of Mahomet; they pray five times a day, with the face turned towards Mecca; perform their ablutions, circumcise their male children, believe that every man's destiny is pre-ordained and written in the book of fate; hate and despise christians and Jews, shut up their women, and eat cooscoso. This is made of granulated paste, in which is smothered any kind of animal food, a dish universally in use, from Arabi to the shores of the Atlantic, and not unlike the pilaw of India, the granulated flour of wheat being substituted for rice.

The Moor never laughs, and seldom smiles; his grave and pensive appearance wears the external characteristic of a thinking animal, but it is the mere result of habit; there is no heart, no mind, no curiosity, no ambitious of knowledge; he exists in a state of perpetual langour, which seems only excited into enjoyment, when in a total vacuity of mind, he is seen to stroke his beard. We say nothing at present of his harem; his domestic amusements can only be known to himself; out of his pleasures in public, next to the abstraction from all ideas, that of the bath seems to preponderate; few of any rank or opulence are without this luxury, but every large town has its public baths, which are generally annexed to some caravansera or coffee-house; here the Moor gets himself well rubbed down, and his joints stretched or shampooed; here he sips his coffee, and here he is amused with wild tales of genii or fairies.

The food and manner of eating among the Moors..... The refinement of eating and drinking, constitutes no part of the Moors' happiness; they have plenty of good and wholesome food; but cooscosoo is the standing dish; the manner of eating it is thus described by col. Keatinge: "The Mussulman, with his left hand, tears the meat to pieces; gropes into and rolls up the grain, combs the offal from his mouth with his fingers, through his long beard, and with a notable regard to economy, throws it back into the dish, for a plastic hand to mould anew into modification for swallowing;" this the colonel calls "philosophically eating to satisfy the claims of nature." While on this subject, our readers may perhaps be amused with the bill of fare of an imperial feast sent to the house of the English ambassador. It was brought by two men 'sweating under the load of a hand-barrow, the contents of which were an enormous China bowl, filled with the national dish, and pride of kitchen Cooscosoo. This being deposited, was followed by an entire sheep, skinned indeed, and bearing evidence of having undergone the process of the kitchen, but yet, apparently, possessing its intestines as in days of yore. The equivoque was, however, speedily solved; for, incision being made, a bounteous discharge of contents extruded, ready dressed, in various fanciful forms of puddings, forced meats, minced meats, and indescribable et-ceteras, wherin it seemed as if this Arabesque the taste had been trained to adhere to the modes of nature.'

Superstition of the Moors.—The Moors are great observers of ill omens; what they most dread is the influence of an evil spirit or an evil eye, to counteract which, they wear charms round the neck, or carry in their stomach a portion of the Koran.—The usual way of preparing the last preventive is to write down certain verses of the Koran, to burn them, and to mix the ashes with some liquid, to be swallowed fasting; thus fortified, a Moor is proof against all the demons of "Don Daniel's cave." Among their superstitions may be reckoned their abhorrence of black; their mode of expressing the number five by four and one; their abstaining from mentioning the word death, which they avoid as cautiously as the courtly divine did the "mention of hell to ears polite." Spirits being supposed to walk abroad at night, he must be a Moor of no ordinary cast of mind who, unfurnished with the sacred periapt just noticed, would venture abroad in the dark; if a person should die suddenly, he is struck by some local demon. Thirteen in company is an unlucky omen; but this superstition, like some of the others, is not confined to the Moors—many a good lady in England, would not sleep comfortably if, by any misfortune, her company at table had consisted of 18. Among other superstitions, an opinion prevails, we believe, in all the four states, that it is ordained the Moors shall loose their country on a Friday, during the hour of prayers, by the invasion of a people clothed in red; yet so inconsistent are they, that at this hour, all the gates of every city are carefully locked, as if bars and bolts could oppose the decrees of fate. They are not, however, mere theorists in predestinations, but submit to every change of fortune with humble resignation, passing from a state of opulence to that of misery, without a murmur; and when death approaches, the expiring man desires nothing more than that his face may be carefully turned towards Mecca, and when assured of his position, he bears his sufferings with patience, and leaves the world in peace.

Method of Sepulture among the Moors. The dead are always dressed for the grave; the ears, nostrils, and eyelids are stuffed with a preparation of camphor and rich spices. An unmarried woman is ornamented as a bride, and bracelets are put on her arms and ankle. The body is wrapped in fine white linen, sanctified at Mecca, which is generally procured in their life time, and carefully preserved for their last dress. At the head of a coffin is placed a turban, if the deceased be a male, corresponding with his rank; if a female a large bouquet of flowers—if a virgin, the loo, loo, loo, is sung by hired women, that she may not be laid in the ground without having had the benefit of the wedding song. On Fridays, the eve of the Mahommedan Sabbath the women visit the tombs of their deceased relations, under the idea that on that day the dead hover round to meet their friends, and to hold commerce with those that may be deposited near them; and on this account they conceive it to be the more necessary to dress the dead, that they may not in such an assembly of ghosts complain of the neglect of their relations. The tombs are neatly white-washed, and kept in constant repair; flowers are planted round them, and no weeds suffered to grow.—Small chapels are generally built over the tombs of persons of rank, and decorated with flowers placed in large China vases.

Austerity of the Monks of La Trappe.

Every one, at his first entrance, assumes a new name. With his former appellation, each is supposed not only to quit the world, but to abjure every recollection and memory of his former self. No word ever drops from their lips, which can possibly give the least clue, by which the others can guess who they are, or where they came from.—Often have persons of the very name, family and neighbourhood, lived together in the convent for years unknown to each other; nor have they suspected their proximity, till at the death of the one, the name on the grave stone revealed the secret to the surviver. Some years ago, a youth of great talents entered himself at La Trappe. His early and deep piety edified the whole society. After a few years, the austerities he had practised at so early an age, undermined his health. He fell into a slow decline. One of the monks was appointed to attend him—He was selected as having himself left the world at a very early period. The youth died. About a year after his death, one of the monks happening to go rather earlier than usual into the burying ground, their usual walking place, he saw the monk, who attended the youth, standing with his arms folded, contemplating his tomb. On hearing him, he immediately fell back into the walk; no more notice was taken, the burying ground continued the daily walking place, nor did any other sympton ever escape. Ten years after the monk died—His grave stone unfolded the secret. It was his only son, whom he wept, and whom, though unknown to him, he had so diligently attended.

THE FATE OF POETS.

Erasmus lived with difficulty, and died in poverty. Cervantes perished in the streets of Madrid.—Camoens, to the eternal disgrace of his age and country, died in an hospital in misery and ruin. Chatterton the finest youthful genius, that ever adorned a country, was left to suicide.—Artedi was buried at the cost of a other;—and Castell, who devoted a large fortune, and seventeen years of unremitted application to his Lexicon Heptaglotten, and who assisted in the formation of the Walton Polyglota Bible, was rewarded neither in proportion to his learning, his abilities or labor. Butler received no profit for his Hudibrass from the profligate and worthless Charles: he lived in want, and received interment at the cost of a friend.—Linnoeus never received more than a ducat a sheet for any of his writings, though he wrote forty different works. "I have tried," said that illustrious character, "whether diligence and unremitted labor can create respect.—In this attempt I have enfeebled my frame; and what is worse than all, I am killing myself without the satisfaction of leaving a provision for my children." In this distressing condition he remained for several years. Here let us stop: it is a subject too painful to be dwelt upon!—A judge is permitted to enjoy his perquisites;—a bishop his rents;—a rector his tenths;—a general his pay;—and the statesman his salary:—but the poet—Oh, spirit of the immortal Spencer!—the poet is doomed to drink the bitter cup of poverty and sorrow. Such is the fate of the poet! Let no one, therefore, of inferior qualifications, complain, if he receive no compensation for his merits, and no reward for his industry.

Boston Intelligencer.

Christ entering Jerusalem.....Col. Henry Sargent, has nearly completed his large painting upon the subject of the entrance of Christ into Jerusalem mounted on an ass, the multitude spreading their garments, and strewing branches in the way. The composition and arrangement of this picture we think, will do great credit to the artist; the grouping of the numerous figures, the harmony of colouring, the bold expression of hatred among the Jews, and the humble adoration of the christians, are executed with equal felicity and judgment. The canvass is of exactly the same size as that of 'the landing of the forefathers,' which was exhibited during the last year; and we hope col. Sargent will soon be able to favor the public, by affording them an equal gratification. [Boston Intel.

Deaf and Dumb—Lord Ellenborough, the present Chief Justice of England convicted a criminal in a case of life and death upon the testimony of a boy, born deaf and dumb. The boy evinced his sanity and sagacity by the same means that the butcher's boy did whose vote was refused at the poll of the first ward, by signs or gestures, clearly comprehensible; and which the chief justice had no difficulty in assuring the jury ought to be received as ample testimony in the case.

Words upon Play, and Play upon Words,

Backgammon Tables are frequently made in the form of a couple of books, laid one upon the other, with lettered and ornamented backs, marbled edges, &c. A gentleman had purchased one at a stationer's in this town, having all the externals of a "Milton." When it was produced, at home the form and size, the boxes and men were all found suiting to the taste of his fair Eve; but the magical cubes (proverbially the device of the Old Serpent) which give life to the whole system, were missing: When, casting her eye upon the lettering, "In truth, my dear," exclaimed she, 'this is Milton's pair o' dice lost.

Salem Gazette.

FINE THOUGHT.

The superiority of mind over matter is thus elegantly illustrated by W. Bruce, of Ireland:

"It was for the birth of a blind and mendicant rhapsodist that seven cities contended: and Troy is not the only place preserved from oblivion by a poet. While even the situations of magnificent cities are forgotten, we are familiar with the insignificant village that sheltered some humble philosopher, or the rill that quenched the thirst of some indigent bard."

MAMMOTH RADISH.—Accounts of mammoth cabbages, beats, radishes, &c. have of late frequently appeared in the newspapers, none of which are more worthy of notice than the following:—A radish was raised the present season, in the garden of Mr. James Adams of this city, which weighed 15 1-4 pounds, measured 3 1-2 feet in length, and 20 inches in circumference.

Blessings of Vaccination—In London, in the week ending September 12, there was not a single death by the Small Pox.—A circumstance which has not happened before for 200 years.

Buonaparte....The author of the recently published work at Paris, entitled "Letters on the War of Russia, in 1812,"—gives the following characteristic anecdote of Buonaparte:—A few days before the passage of the Beresina, Buonaparte was marching on foot, with all the marks of the greatest uneasiness and the most lively agitation. The prince of Neufchatel (Berthier) was some paces in advance of him. An officer, col. F. attached to the staff, was seen to come suddenly up and make a report to the prince, Bonaparte, as he was coming up, overheard the words Russian and Beresina, and repeatedly exclaimed, in an impatient tone, What are they discussing there? Berthier ordered the col. to repeat his report; upon which the following dialogue ensued:—

M. de F.—The marshal has charged me to come and give an account that the Russian army of Moldavia has arrived on the Beresina, and has seized all the passages.

Bonaparte.—This is not true; it is not true—it can't be so.

M. de F.—That two divisions of the enemy have seized the bridge, and already occupied the left bank, and that the river is not sufficiently frozen over to make it practicable to pass on the ice.

Bonaparte (in a rage).....You lie! you lie! it is false.

M. de F.....(cooly, and raising his tone a little,)....I was not commissioned to reconnoitre the enemy's positions; the marshal sent me to make this report. I perform my duty! The young officer who witnessed the scene, adds, "Seeing Bonaparte shake his cane, I thought he meant to strike the colonel; but at the same time he leant backwards, his legs spread asunder, his left arm resting on his cane, gnashing his teeth, his look breathing fury, and looking up to heaven, he raised his right arm as if to threaten it. A cry of rage broke from him; he repeated his menacing gesture towards heaven, and apostrophised it with an expression, brief as energetic; the very word was horrible blasphemy. I can safely say, that during my whole life, I never saw a more horrible figure than his at the time."

LONDON, Sept. 15.

The Algerines were assisted in their defence by some Europeans, chiefly French, among whom are reckoned 56 officers of artillery and 18 of engineers; but nothing could withstand the destructive fire of the cannon, the bombs, and the rockets, showered upon the place by the British men of war.

The principal inhabitants of the kingdom of Algiers are Arabians, Moors and Jews, estimated at about 200,000 souls, who are lorded over by 12,000 Turks, conscious of the malice the people bear them as the tyrants of their country. These Turks are a set of desperate men, originally collected in the Levant, who form the army, hold the reins of government, and keep the rest of the people under tribute. The cruelties and atrocities of all kinds, the latter experience from their masters, can only be equalled by their conduct toward christian slaves. The inhabitants of a Moorish town tremble at the sight of a Turk. It is natural, therefore, to suppose that they are always anxious and ready to be freed from these intruders, who have usurped authority over them by murdering their lawful princes, filling their country with carnage, and thus upholding themselves by terror and oppression. The Beys of the interior are regarded as vassals, and there the Turks only hold sway by extreme vigilance, by disarming the people, by a severe police, and by keeping garrison in the towns and commanding posts.

A Jew, of the name of Gerson, was baptized on Wednesday last, in St. James Church Bath. This convert to the christian religion is between 30 and 40 years of age.

The Dublin Evening Post of Tuesday last, says: "Since Saturday last, there has scarcely been ever remembered in the neighborhood of Dublin, such an incessant storm of wind and rain. Last night it blew a tornado. It awoke and alarmed most of the inhabitants of this city."

The ex-king of Westphalia, Jerome, who has laid aside the name of Bonaparte, is now called the prince of Montford, appears to be in Stutgard.

Lewis Leonard, convicted of robbing the Bank of Philadelphia, has been sentenced to 12 years confinement in the penitentiary at hard labor.

FIRE AT HALIFAX.

By capt. Rea, who arrived at N. York, in ten days from Halifax, we learn that a destructive fire broke out 3 or 4 days previous to his sailing, which consumed 14 houses and stores, principally in Second and Water-streets. Loss estimated at 80,000l. sterling. The fire originated in the store of Mr. Douglass.

CURE FOR COUGHS, COLDS, &c.

Hamilton's Elixir,

A SOVEREIGN REMEDY for Colds, obstinate Coughs, Asthmas, Sore Throats, and aproaching Consumptions, and most disordes of the breast and lungs.

A SINGLE TRIAL

Will prove, that it restores the determination of the fluid to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthful perspiration; that it dislodges and evacuates the tough viscid phlegm or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs, sheathes the acrimonious humor which irritates them, and finally discharges it. Thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms are of course effectually and permanently conquered; the reverse of common medicines, which weaken the constitution and give strength to the disorder, for the sake of moderating for the present some of its painful effects.

To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

TO H. LEE.

Being desirous to make public, for the good of others, the excellent quality of HAMILTON'S ELIXIR, prepared by the late Mr Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it, which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had to rise up in my bed, with all the horrors of immediate suffocaton. Add to these a constant pain in my breast, and a cough, a great loss of strength and flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption The advise of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying, he had used it in his practice, and always found it to do much good A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's, and I found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it, and was soon strong enough to attend to business. On taking cold some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir.

THE Subscriber will Sell the whole or any part of the following described Valuable Property, viz:—

A LOT OF GROUND, situated at the corner of Smithfield and Second Streets, in the City of Pittsburgh, containing 50 feet in front on Smithfield Street, and 66 and an half feet in depth. This Lot can be conveniently divided into two handsome building Lots of 25 feet front each; and the scite of the Bridge over the Monongahela River being fixed at the mouth of Smithfield Street, renders them eligible stands for Mercantile, Manufacturing, or Mechanical business.

THREE LOTS OF GROUND in the City of Pittsburgh—one fronting on Second Street, opposite the New Market, fronting a square of 100 feet wide extending to Smithfield Street, containing 40 feet front on Second Street, and extending in depth towards Front Street 65 feet, on which is erected a large and commodious Warehouse, suitable for any person engaged in Commission business—and its vicinity to the river, renders it peculiarly advantageous to mercantile men. The other two Lots are situated on the north side of Front Street—one of them containing 40 feet front on Front Street, and extending in depth towards Second Street 65 feet, on which is erected a large two story Frame Dwelling House, recently occupied by Thomas Bracken—the other adjoining the above 20 feet in front on Front Street, and 65 feet deep: both eligible situations for business

Also, AN OUT LOT, adjoining the City, containing about 16 acres, and adjoining property belonging to Doctor George Stevenson, and James R Butler, bounded on the Monongahela river, and the public road leading to the Turnpike at Thompson's Lane. This Lot is in the highest state of cultivation, with a thriving young Orchard of the best grafted fruit, a Brick Spring House, over one of the finest springs in the Western Country, and a variety of other improvements. This Lot will be Sold either in whole, or be divided into small Lots, to suit purchasers, a plan of which may be seen on application to the subscriber.

The whole of the above described property, recently belonged to the late Thomas Bracken. The terms will be liberal and accommodating to purchasers. Any person wishing to view any part of the property, will apply to the subscriber, or those on the premises.

DOCTOR CHISHOLM'S
Anti-Bilious Pills,

Of a quality superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a GENERAL MEDICINE, in this Country.

NOW prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India Islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates.

This extraordinary Medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuent of Bile, is without example; never producing debility or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child or weakly female.

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excruciating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flaxseed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and DISEASES OF THE LIVER, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case the dose may be increased according to the strength or constituton.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their streugth and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing & great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by
